CCC's Dynamic Election Campaign, Targets Wards And Clusters

■ Party Is sharing their successful efforts in organising rallies across multiple wards and clusters over the weekend

By Citizens' Daily Culletin Correspondent

The Citizens Coalition for Change (CCC) is leaving no stone unturned as they gear up for the upcoming watershed elections.

With a dedicated team of members, the CCC is actively engaged in daily campaigns, ensuring that the message of their presidential candidate, President Nelson Chamisa, reaches voters in both rural and urban areas.

In a tweet, the CCC shared their successful efforts in organising rallies across multiple wards and clusters over the weekend.

“As we gear up for the watershed elections, our dedicated members are actively engaged in daily campaigns, effectively spreading awareness about the CCC and our presidential candidate, President Nelson Chamisa to voters in both rural and urban areas,” the party tweeted.

By directly engaging with the people, the CCC is standing by their core principle of putting citizens first. They firmly believe that by bringing their campaign directly to the people, they can better address the needs and concerns of the citizens of Zimbabwe.

“Over the past weekend, we successfully organized rallies in multiple wards and clusters. A core principle of our philosophy is putting citizens first, and that's precisely why we are bringing our campaign directly to the people.”

The ultimate goal of the CCC is to build a New Great Zimbabwe—a Zimbabwe that benefits and uplifts everyone. Their vision is focused on creating a brighter and more prosperous future for all citizens.

The CCC's proactive and dynamic approach to their election campaign is commendable. By spreading awareness and actively engaging with voters, they are working towards creating a more informed electorate.

“Our ultimate goal is to build a New Great Zimbabwe that benefits and uplifts EVERYONE. Join us in this endeavor towards a brighter.”

Joanna Mamombe And Cecilia Chimbiri Acquitted

■ Joana Mamombe and Cecilia Chimbiri, members of the Citizens' Coalition for Change (CCC) and prominent figures in Zimbabwean politics, have finally been acquitted of the trumped-up charges they faced for over three years.

By Tongai Mwenje

These charges stemmed from the alleged fabrication of their abduction and torture in 2020.

The story began when Mamombe, Chimbiri, and their colleague Netsai Marova were arrested at a roadblock near Harare Show Grounds by suspected State security officers.

They were tortured and sexually assaulted before dumped at a shopping center near Bindura, a town in the province of Mashonaland Central province, Zimbabwe.

Prior to this, the trio had been alleged to have led an anti-government protest in Harare.

Medical affidavits supported the victims' claims, showing that they had been brutally assaulted to the point where they were unable to walk.

They spent several days in the hospital before finally being discharged.

However, instead of being treated as victims, Mamombe and Chimbiri found themselves facing charges of communicating falsehoods after they shared their harrowing experiences with their relatives and families. They were detained for a total of 61 days in Chikurubi Maximum Prison, as the case against them dragged on and on.

But finally, their innocence has been proven.

The High Court dismissed the case against Mamombe and Chimbiri, putting an end to their ordeal.

Judge Munamati Manongwa delivered the ruling on Tuesday, stating that the state's evidence against the two was grossly unreasonable, irrational, and characterized by bias and malice. He emphasized that the evidence presented was insufficient to support the charges.

In his ruling, Judge Manongwa referred to previous cases, such as Sv Kachipare, Attorney General v Bruma de Anor, and Attorney General

v Mziti, to establish that it is unjustifiable to support a state case that lacks evidence.

He stressed that it is not the court's role to salvage a crumbling case and that an accused person is entitled to an acquittal if there is a lack of evidence or if the evidence is manifestly unreliable.

Ultimately, Judge Manongwa ruled in favor of Mamombe and Chimbiri, stating that their application had merit.

He proclaimed, "The accused persons Joana Mamombe and Cecilia Revai Chimbiri be and are hereby found not guilty, discharged, and acquitted at the close of the State case."

The acquittal of Mamombe and Chimbiri marks the end of a long and emotionally draining legal battle.

While the country's judicial system is highly controversial, the ruling by Judge Manongwa is a significant victory for them.

CCC Engages ZEC Over Voter's Roll, Urges Candidates To Pay Special Attention To Postal Ballots

■ The Citizens Coalition for Change (CCC) has taken measures to safeguard the integrity of the electoral process in order to prevent a disputed outcome in the upcoming crucial general elections on the 23rd of August 2023.

By Tongai Mwenje

One of the main concerns raised by the CCC was the availability and accuracy of the voters' roll, which is essential for a fair and transparent election.

To address this concern, the CCC's election department conducted discussions with the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission (ZEC), emphasizing the importance of having a comprehensive and up-to-date voters' roll.

These discussions aimed to ensure that the voters' roll is finalized in a timely manner, providing candidates with sufficient time to prepare and strategize for the elections.

Following the engagement with ZEC, Councilor Ian Makone, in an update seen by this reporter, informed his party's Members of Parliament (MPs) that ZEC is currently in the process of finalizing the soft copy of the Voters' Roll.

He expressed confidence that this process would be completed within the next couple of days.

"Following engagement with ZEC, please be advised that ZEC is reportedly finalizing the soft copy of the Voters Roll and should be done in the next couple of days," Makoni said.

Makone urged all candidates to remain vigilant and be prepared to receive the soft copy of the voters' roll for their respective wards and constituencies.

To facilitate this, he requested that the candidates contact his office once they have collected their voters' rolls for further assistance and guidance.

The CCC, recognizing the importance of upholding the integrity of the electoral process, emphasized the need for all members of the Multi-Party Liaison Committees to be vigilant and guard against any form of manipulation or misconduct.

"It is of paramount importance that all Champions who are members of Multi Party Liaison Committees guard against manipulations of one firm or another."

It is crucial to ensure that the elections are conducted in a free, fair, and transparent manner.

Additionally, the CCC called for special attention to be given to postal ballots and the utmost importance of maintaining the secrecy of the ballot.

Safeguarding the integrity of the voting process, including postal voting, is essential to ensure a fair representation of the electorate's choices.

"Kindly pay special attention to postal ballots and the need to maintain secrecy of the ballot."

George Charamba Exposed For Spreading Falsehoods After Publishing 2020 Chibaya Images

■ Zimbabwe's presidential spokesperson, George Charamba, under a Twitter account named Tinoedza Zvimwe, has found himself caught in a web of lies after sharing Amos Chibaya's 2020 images and falsely claiming that he was recently beaten by disgruntled party members in Bulawayo

By Tongai Mwenje

These misinformation tactics were initially shared by Charamba's propagandist colleague, Professor Jonathan Moyo.

Moyo had previously disseminated a video, falsely claiming that Chibaya was being heckled by dissatisfied party members in Bulawayo.

However, the truth behind Moyo's claims quickly unraveled when it was revealed that Chibaya had actually been addressing party members at a rally in Gweru at the same time.

In a failed attempt to support his colleague's false narrative, Charamba proceeded to share Chibaya's 2020 pictures, which showed him with a bruised face following a car accident.

This accident occurred on the 10th of May 2020, when Chibaya and John Kuka were involved in a head-on collision near Zvishavane. The accident was reported by the state newspaper, the Herald, which Charamba has influence over.

Charamba exploited the same images used by his own

"newspaper" in their coverage of Chibaya's accident.

In his tweet, he lied about the context of the pictures, claiming that Chibaya had sustained the bruises after being brutally attacked by his own party members following an alleged rally in Bulawayo.

However, Charamba's attempts to deceive were swiftly dismantled by a digital strategist named Solomon Harudzibwi.

Harudzibwi exposed Charamba's propaganda by pointing out that the same picture had been published in the state-controlled newspaper.

He responded to Charamba's tweet, saying, "Mudhara muri munhu mukuru. Nyarai mudhara, here is the same picture in your propaganda mouthpiece" (Translation: "Grow up, old man. You must be ashamed of yourself. Here is the same picture in your propaganda mouthpiece").

The exposure of Charamba's manipulation by Harudzibwi highlights the importance of holding public figures accountable for spreading falsehoods.

This incident serves as a reminder of the need for transparency and integrity in political discourse.
