President Chamisa Set To Secure Presidential Election Victory By 9% Margin: New Research Shows

By Citizens DailyBulletin Correspondent

A recent poll conducted by Elite Africa Research in June reveals that Nelson Chamisa, the leader of the Citizens Coalition for Change (CCC) party, is poised to win the upcoming Zimbabwean presidential election by a significant margin of 8% to 9%, assuming the elections are conducted fairly and transparently.

The survey, which gathered responses from 2,000 registered voters, indicates that if the elections were held at the time of the study, 47.6% of respondents would have cast their vote in favor of Chamisa, while 38.7% would have supported President Emmerson Mnangagwa.

Similarly, in the parliamentary elections, 47.7% of respondents expressed their preference for Chamisa's CCC party, while 39.6% chose Mnangagwa's ruling Zanu-PF party.

The upcoming elections are scheduled to take place on August 23.

The survey further sheds light on Zimbabweans' overall belief that their country is moving in the wrong direction and that the economy is deteriorating.

A substantial majority of 69.4% of respondents expressed their concern over the country's direction, while only 27.3% believed the nation was on the right track.

The respondents' opinions regarding the economy were even more critical, with 77.5% stating that they believed it was worsening, compared to only 19.6% who thought it was improving.

Furthermore, 59.8% of those polled expressed their desire for a new government after the elections, while only 37% preferred the continuation of the current administration.

Significantly, the survey also captured the respondents' views on various political leaders and parties, including their level of favorability or unfavorability towards them.

Chamisa emerged as the most popular leader, with a net positive score of 29.6%, while Mnangagwa received a net negative score of 2.6%. Similarly, the CCC party garnered a net positive score of 28.6%, whereas Zanu-PF recorded a net negative score of 2.7%.

These net scores were derived by subtracting the unfavorable responses from the favorable ones for each leader or party. These findings collectively indicate a high level of discontent among Zimbabweans towards Mnangagwa and Zanu-PF.

ans towards Mnangagwa and Zanu-PF.

If these survey results are replicated in the election on August 23, it would mean that Zimbabweans may have to participate in a second round of voting shortly afterward.

This would become necessary because no presidential candidate would have secured more than 50% of the vote in the initial round.

In such a case, the top two candidates would face each other in a run-off election to ensure that the winner receives more than 50% of the total vote. - With Daily Maverick

Citizens' Action For Change Bull Challenge: All The Details

By Citizens' Daily Bulletin
Correspondent

Citizens Action for Change (CAC), a group of citizens both locally and abroad mobilizing funds to support Advocate Nelson Chamisa's candidature, has embarked on another fundraising endeavor by auctioning a bull generously donated by a Murehwa farmer, Mr. Mushayabasa. The donation from Mr. Mushayabasa aligns with the President's call to support the deployment of polling agents in the upcoming elections.

CAC has been actively raising funds since January 2022 and has successfully accumulated a sum of $334,000.

These funds are dedicated to voter mobilization efforts and the defense of the vote. Mr. Mushayabasa's contribution arrived at a critical juncture, as CAC intensified its fundraising campaign by reaching out to farmers and business-people across Zimbabwe.

This auction is not the first of its kind for CAC. Previously, they successfully auctioned a pig donated by Hon. Tendai Biti, fetching an impressive sum of over $6,000.

Just last month, CAC organized an auction for a holiday package to Victoria Falls, raising $5,300. These auctions have proven to be highly effective in bringing communities together and simplifying the fundraising process.

The rules of the auction are as follows:

■ Participate in the auction with a $25 donation as the entry fee. You can participate as an individual or as a group.

■ Make a donation on the link <https://citizensactionforchange.org/fund/chamisa-defend-the-vote-fund> using #BullChallenge and add the team name in the comments section of the donation link.

■ Capture a screenshot of the receipt and submit the receipt to the inbox of the organization's Twitter handle, @citizenactionz.

■ The donor will keep the receipts until they are asked to hand them over to the judges.

■ This challenge is open to every citizen; you can enter the challenge as an individual or a group. At no time will groups be allowed to merge.

■ The auction commenced at 10 p.m. on June 11, 2023, and will continue until 10 p.m. on July 22, 2023.

■ On the final day of the auction, July 22, a series of activities will take place to determine the winner.

The proceedings of the final day are as follows:

■ Participate On Twitter Space event to be held on July 22, 2023. The event will run the whole day and serve as a platform for participants to follow the proceedings.

■ At 10 p.m. CAT Time, the judges will reveal the amounts collected by each team and address any discrepancies that may have arisen.

■ Once the deposit window closes at 11:15 p.m., the auction judges will tally their figures and cross-verify them with the bidders.

■ Finally, at 11:30 p.m., the auction judges will announce the winner of this remarkable fundraising initiative.

To actively participate and stay updated with the auction progress, it is essential for participants to be present at the designated Twitter Space event on July 22, 2023.

The event will provide an opportunity to engage with other participants and witness the thrilling culmination of the auction.

The commitment and dedication of Citizens Action for Change, coupled with the generosity of donors like Mr. Mushayabasa, highlight the collective effort to support Advocate Nelson Chamisa's candidature and uphold democratic principles.

These initiatives play a crucial role in ensuring voter participation and safeguarding the integrity of the electoral process.

To stay updated on CAC's activities and contribute to their noble cause, follow their Twitter handle, @citizenactionz and participate in their twitter spaces held daily.

Together, Zimbabweans can make a significant impact and pave the way for a future that champions transparency, accountability, and democratic ideals.

may have arisen.

■ At 10:30 p.m., a silent bidding period will commence for 30 minutes, allowing participants to place their bids confidentially.

■ At 11 p.m., a 15-minute deposit window will open, during which the auction judges will conclude the bid-

Lynette Karenyi Demands Fair Media Coverage For All Citizens, Says State Media Is Biased Towards Zanu-PF

By Citizens' Daily Bulletin
Correspondent

Citizens Coalition For Change Aspiring MP for Mutare-Chikanga Constituency Lynette Karenyi-Kore said yesterday that the State Media is using unfair tactics and depriving the CCC of full coverage on State Media outlets.

Addressing the Media Indaba in Harare Karenyi-Kore said that instead of giving just five or ten minutes coverage to the largest opposition party and President Chamisa - state media was only shooting and showing part of the crowd at gatherings - instead of showing the full picture.

She said the the state media was in the habit of twisting the speeches of the CCC leaders and yet it is the job of the public broadcaster to inform, educate and entertain everybody - without bias, fear or favour.

She said: "Well if you are covering we expect to see the same thing zvinoitwa ku Zanu-PF to hear them speaking for almost 5 or 10 minutes vachitaura. You will open the ZBC that is why most of the people do not pay the ZBC licence.

"That's because if you tune to ZBC you only hear dzimbo dze Zanu-PF, you only hear Zanu-PF speaking so the issue is we are saying if you are covering us as CCC for example if my President is on air allow him to speak, not to cut him not also to speak on behalf of him.

"If you have come for the rally just allow him to speak so that people hear his speech rather than you coming mon- goratidza and most of it vanoratidza vanhu vasati vauya mu rally macho mongo cover pavanhu tushoma shoma the crowd is not even covered. So we expect you to cover the same way yamunoita yekutenderedza ve Zanu-PF vachiimba vachifara we also expect you also to cover us kuCCC and when our people are speaking allow them` to say whatever they are saying so that Zimbabweans also hear mapolicies atinenge tichioffer rather than you kuti multe speak on behalf of the party," said Karenyi-Kore

Is The ZRP Now Contaminating Our Electoral Democracy?

One of, if not the most fundamental truths about effective democratic, human rights-based policing is proximity to citizens. It is no coincidence that whenever one travels around a country, even in the most despicable of all governance and justice systems, one sees police stations usually located in the middle of residential areas.

In Zimbabwe, police posts are named after residential areas e.g., Ruwa police, Amaveni police, Mkoba police, Luveve police, Dangamvura police and so on and so forth. In its own way, this nomenclature is a statement that a country's police are not just an extension, but the first port of call; the last frontier in the community justice system.

In fact, the above paragraph - to those who understand the critical role that policing plays in our lives - is an understatement. Whenever anyone - a stranger, a criminal, a neighbour, a child, a traveller - is in distress, the first question that comes to their mind is: "Where on earth is the nearest police station?" I say 'criminal' in the context of mob justice. A police station is a haven of safety even for a petty criminal pursued by an angry mob. A police station is a place of refuge for a bank robber fleeing from colleagues who accuse him of hiding their loot. In simple terms, at least in my small world, any police detail should be a friend. Perhaps I should have said 'ideal world', right?

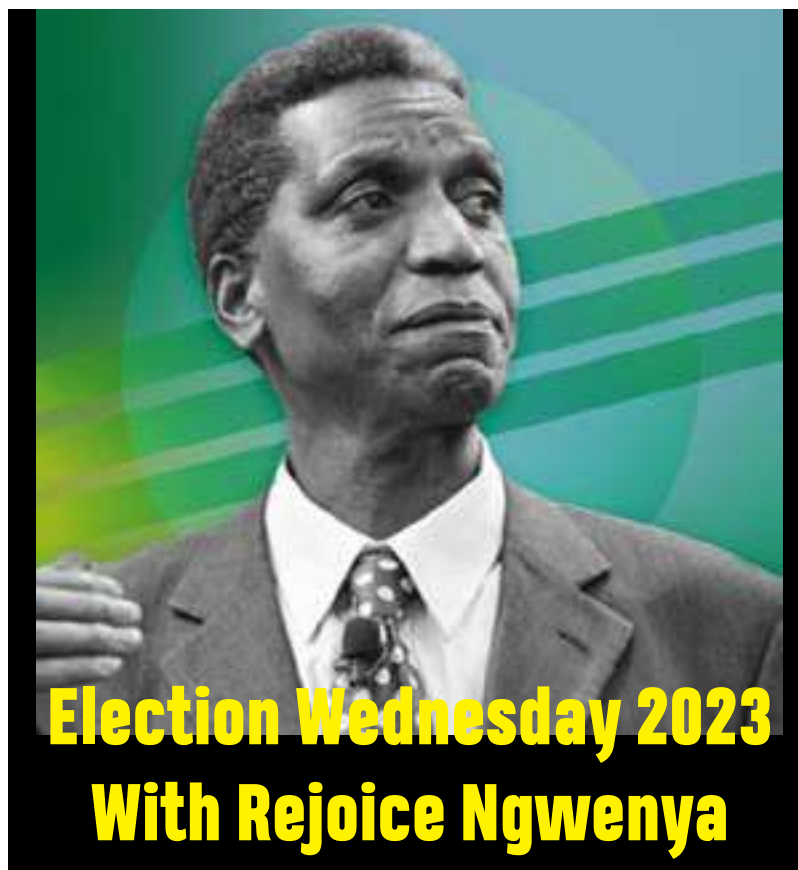

When Robert Mugabe was unconstitutionally removed from power in November 2017, thanks to the connivance of both Emmerson Mnangagwa and Constantine Chiwenga, most Zimbabweans - including 'hardcore' democrats like me - celebrated. Not that Mugabe himself was an avid constitutionalist given his despotic rule, a story for another day. But one reason - if not the only - that millions of Zimbabweans, especially the motoring public celebrated was the quick and decisive demise of the despicably corrupt policing 'regime' of one 'comrade' Augustine Chihuri.

Mr. Chihuri - a former freedom fighter himself - had turned Zimbabwe Republic Police (ZRP) into ZRFP - Zimbabwe Republic Frankenstein Police. The Chihuri policing became so ruthless, vindictive and corrupt to the extent that the entire policing value chain morphed into a shameless enterprise. According to existing court records - Chihuri accumulated so much wealth because each and every road across Zimbabwe he turned into a personal automated teller machine.

Not just that. The Chihuri policing system was so entwined with Mugabe's political corruption so much that it became impossible to differentiate between ZRP, 'ZRFP' and 'Zanu-PF'. And not by coincidence, but by design.

Thus, when the world woke up to that Chihuri had finally lost the proverbial key to the cash vault, an audible collective sigh of relief reverberated across Zimbabwe - more so amongst the exasperated and hapless motoring public. In Chihuri's ZRFP world, every opposition party leader or member was considered guilty until proven innocent. In his crooked manual of policing, Chihuri turned his hierarchy and subordinates into political lapdogs whose sole mandate was to make it impossible for Zimbabwe's multiparty electoral democracy to function. He made his subordinates swear that Zanu-PF, the ruling party, wielded priority over all justice systems and that its interests came first.

Tragically, our dear ZRP became one of the most ridiculed, hated and disparaged public institutions not only in our country but also in the region. To put it in more discernable perspective, Augustine Chihuri caused the good name of community-based policing intractable and irreparable damage. Thus, every Zimbabwean - except those that benefited from his ZRFP - was glad to see Augustine Chihuri in the one-way departure lounge to Martian excommunication.

Now, in 2023, almost five years after Chihuri's ZRFP, I want to ask my friends in ZRP a genuine question: "Have we slowly and quietly slid back to the Chihuri policing era?"

The answer to my humble question can only be satisfactory when one starts from our National Constitution, of which I was an integral part, as I have already mentioned in previous writings. If you quickly scan sections 219 - 223, you will discover that our Constitution writers had in mind a very functional, human rights-based policing system that favours no one. I am particularly excited by section 219 paragraphs (1) (e) and (3).

Therefore, a ZRP that neither upholds the Constitution nor acts in a partisan manner does not fit the bill of professionalism. As liberal, I would put it as "ZRP is the first line of defence of my civil liberties and my freedoms."

There is usually no case that gets to court without prior intervention or involvement of ZRP. In fact, when I go to Ruwa or Mabvuku police to 'present' a case, the first thing - even if I am the perpetrator

- that the man or woman in uniform should ensure is that my constitutional rights are protected.

Listen to this - even if I happened to be a member of an opposition party. Political rights are guaranteed in and by our Constitution. The Constitution is the supreme law and no other statute or administrative instrument should override the Constitution. It is therefore unacceptable and a disgrace that a 'simple' letter can be written by a police detail to prevent Zimbabweans gathering and listening to a presidential candidate of their choice. It was a mistake on our part as constitutionalists to 'allow' Augustine Chihuri to be 'appointed' by Robert Mugabe (section 221).

When a member of such critical public office in the democratic value chain is beholden to a president of a political party, policing loses its community significance. Let me clarify that police details do not act on their own volition.

They take orders, thus when a 'letter' is authored by a 'local officer' to prevent a political rally... Actually, let me rewrite this statement for the avoidance of doubt. When a 'letter' is authored by a Bindura-based police officer to prevent a political Citizens Coalition for Change rally, such orders could only have emanated from the Commissioner-General of police.

ZRP Bikita Finally Accept To Open A Docket Against Energy Mutodi

Bikita South CCC member, John Mupanduki, aged 30, this week successfully opened a case against Bikita South ZANU-PF aspiring candidate, Energy Mutodi.

The case - whose docket RRB 5583028 - is widely circulating on social media - was reported on July 9th, 2023, at Bikita Police Station.

Mutodi reportedly fired two gunshots towards CCC members who had congregated at the CCC rally held at Baradzamwa Business Centre.

He fired the gunshots in order to disperse CCC members who attended President Nelson Chamisa's campaign rally on July 6th, 2023.

Constable Chiweshe is handling the case.

Interestingly, three days ago senior police officer, Mam-bure in Bikita, had refused to accept a police report against Mutodi from CCC member, Simon Ziki.

The question is: will the police have the guts to arrest ZANU-PF aspiring candidate, Energy Mutodi?

In addition, will ZEC disqualify ZANU-PF party candidate, Mr. Energy Mutodi, for firing gunshots against CCC members?

This case will test ZEC and ZANU-PF's partiality.

Gunshots: CCC Outrage As Police Refuse To Take Action Against Energy Mutodi

By Citizens Daily Bulletin Correspondent

The Citizens Coalition for Change (CCC) members have expressed their outrage after a senior Bikita Police Officer, Tawani Mambure, reportedly refused to take action against Energy Mutodi, an aspiring member of Parliament for the Zambezi party.

Mutodi stands accused of firing two gunshots at a crowd gathered at Baruchanwa business centre in an attempt to intimidate them.

The incident occurred just moments before a scheduled address by CCC leader Nelson Chamisa on Thursday.

According to witnesses, Mambure advised CCC Bikita chapter members not to report the case, claiming that it had lapsed.

However, this decision has left the CCC members stunned and furious, as they believe it places political expediency above the pursuit of justice.

Simon Ziki, a member of the CCC, expressed his disbelief at Mambure's refusal to take action, stating, "If this case is not reported, it means the police have given a green light for anyone to commit a crime without facing justice."

Ziki emphasised the urgency of taking the matter to the next level to ensure that Mutodi is held accountable for his alleged actions.

Meanwhile, reports indicate that Mutodi had orchestrated an effort to disrupt the gathering at Baruchanwa business centre.

In response to the lack of action from Mambure, the CCC's determined to escalate the situation to ensure that Mutodi does not evade accountability for his alleged criminal behaviour.

The community remains resolute in their demand for justice, refusing to let this incident fade away without repercussions.

Mambure's actions have sparked concerns among the community members, who question the impartiality and integrity of the local police force.

As the situation continues to unfold, all eyes are on the authorities to see if justice will prevail or if political protection will override the pursuit of truth.

The CCC, along with the residents of Bikita, are unwavering in their commitment to fight for justice in Zimbabwe. They firmly believe that no individual should be exempt from the consequences of their actions, regardless of their political affiliation or status.

Citizens In Harare Complain About Increased Load Shedding

By Citizens' Daily Bulletin Correspondent

Harare, Zimbabwe - Frustration and anger are mounting among residents of Marlborough and other areas in Harare as load shedding continues to escalate, leaving them without electricity for significant periods of time.

In what seems to be a worsening situation, Marlborough residents are reporting access to electricity for less than 8 hours a day, with some experiencing as little as 5 hours on Tuesday alone.

Nights spent in darkness have become a recurring nightmare for the residents, who are growing tired of broken promises from the Zanu PF government regarding the provision of electricity. The government had pledged to increase the national grid to 3000MW, a capacity aimed to meet the nation's demand of 2200MW.

However, these promises appear to be mere empty words as load shedding persists and the nation struggles with an electricity deficit. "Mornings, afternoons, and evenings without power have become the new norm. It's unbearable," lamented Mrs. Chipo Nyoni, a resident of Marlborough.

"We were promised a brighter future, but it seems like we're just left in the dark, quite literally. We cannot even plan our daily routines, let alone run our businesses effectively."

Another Marlborough resident, Mr. Tapiwa Chikomo, voiced his frustration, saying, "We were led to believe that Zimbabwe would not only meet its domestic demand but also export electricity. It's disheartening to see that we're currently generating less than 1500MW, which is far below what our country needs. This situation is a direct consequence of Zanu PF's poor energy policies."

As citizens continue to endure the impacts of prolonged load shedding, they are calling on the government to take immediate action in addressing the energy crisis.

They demand transparency and accountability in finding a long-term solution, as the toll on their daily lives continues to increase.

With hopes that the upcoming elections will offer citizens an opportunity to choose a government that will prioritize resolving the electricity deficit, citizens remain steadfast in their desire for a brighter future where uninterrupted power supply becomes a reality once more.

CCC Deputy Spokesman Gift Ostallos Siziba Urges Citizens To Map Polling Stations

Citizens Coalition For Change Deputy Spokesman Gift Ostallos Siziba has urged Citizens to be vigilant about the upcoming general elections, saying that it is time to act, map and adopt polling stations.

In a tweet, the deputy spokesman said that it is possible to define the country's future through knowing everything about one's polling station - and its state of readiness. The deputy spokesman's tweet was followed by the Add Your Polling Station To The Citizens Map poster. The poster showed the six steps that one can take to map the polling stations and that the system itself is actually user-friendly in sending one's live location while setting up the map. On the six steps Citizens will be able to physically go to their local polling station and send a whatsapp location - which is accurate to within 14 metres from the polling station - and then send the location co-ordinates to the party's database which is putting the Citizens Map together. Play your part.

ZIMBABWE

PRESS STATEMENT

VIOLATION OF EXCHANGE CONTROL DIRECTIVES AND GOVERNMENT POLICY

- 1) Under the National Development Strategy 1, Government has made considerable progress in stabilizing the economy, the exchange rate and general price of goods and services by implementing a variety of fiscal and monetary stabilization measures.
- 2) Government is committed to achieving lasting price stability and recently introduced the wholesale foreign exchange auction system which allows banks to access foreign exchange at market determined exchange rates for onwards transmission to their customers. This liberalized trading environment has allowed the market to stabilize and we have seen a market appreciation of the Zimbabwean Dollar and the containment of inflation, creating a conducive environment for business to operate.
- 3) However, Government notes with concern that some market players continue to exhibit highly destabilizing forward pricing and speculation in outright violation of exchange control directives as well as standing government policy guidelines with respect to pricing and the use of domestic currency. This practice is particularly rampant but is certainly not limited to the pharmaceutical sector.
- 4) Ongoing investigations by the Financial Intelligence Unit have revealed that some pharmacies are using parallel market exchange rates ranging from between ZWL8 500.00 to ZWL11 000.00 against the USD, in complete violation of Government Policy and country's anti money laundering regulations.
- 5) Government has instituted measures that will result in the suspension and/or cancellation of the trading licenses of the following pharmacies: -

Name of Company	Location	Observed Violation
Blessed Pharmacy	Chegutu	Using exchange rate ZWL 10 000.00

Zimbabwe Government to suspend, cancel 17 pharmacies' operating licences over exchange rates violations

THE Finance Ministry has cancelled operating licences for 17 Pharmacies nationwide after the Financial Intelligence Unit Investigations (FIU) conducted investigations which found the businesses violating the exchange rate.

The measures come after a prolonged period of diplomacy and engagement with the business community on the need to respect prevailing exchange rates.

Before this, government gave an ear to the cries from industry which demanded a market determined exchange rate by refining the Reserve Bank of Zimbabwe (RBZ) Dutch Auction system in a development that has seen exchange rate equilibrium being achieved on both the parallel and official markets.

However, Treasury said it was dismayed by the continued insatiable appetite to profiteer exhibited by the business community.

“The government notes with concern that some market players continue to exhibit highly destabilising forward pricing and speculation in outright violation of exchange control directives as well as well as standing government policy guidelines with respect to pricing and the use of domestic currency,” said Treasury.

It was also noted that this practice is also rampant and certainly not limited to the pharmaceutical sector, in an indication that more companies will soon face penalties.

“Ongoing investigations by the FIU have revealed that some pharmacies are using parallel market exchange rates ranging from between ZW$8 500 to ZWL11 000 against the US$, in complete violation of government policy and the country's anti monZWL 10 000,” Treasury said.

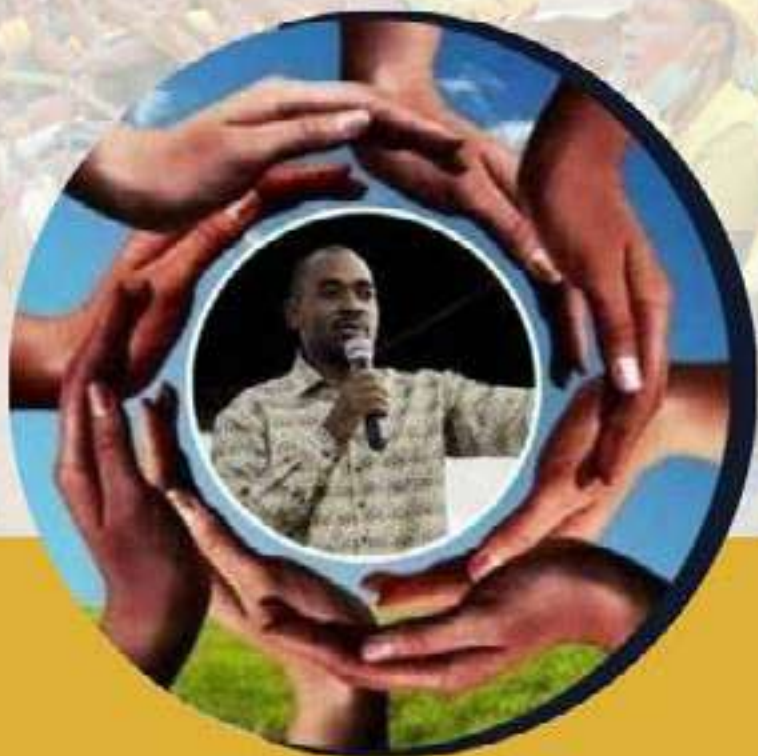

A commitment to revamp the broad use of the local currency for domestic transactions as well as holding all violators to account was pledged amid a reinforced call directed to Government Agencies including local authorities to collect their fees and levies in local currency.

“The transacting public is encouraged to resist all forms of unfair pricing by retailers and immediately report violations to the Financial Intelligence Unit,” added Treasury. - With News Zimbabwe.com

Citizens' Action For Change Bull Challenge: All The Details

By Citizens' Daily Bulletin Correspondent

Citizens Action For Change (CAC), a group of citizens both locally and abroad mobilizing funds to support Advocate Nelson Chamisa's candidature, has embarked on another fundraising endeavor by auctioning a bull generously donated by a Murehwa farmer, Mr. Mushayabasa. The donation from Mr. Mushayabasa aligns with the President's call to support the deployment of polling agents in the upcoming elections.

CAC has been actively raising funds since January 2022 and has successfully accumulated a sum of $334,000.

These funds are dedicated to voter mobilization efforts and the defense of the vote. Mr. Mushayabasa's contribution arrived at a critical juncture, as CAC intensifies its fund-raising campaign by reaching out to farmers and businesspeople across Zimbabwe.

This auction is not the first of its kind for CAC. Previously, they successfully auctioned a pig donated by Hon. Tendai Biti, fetching an impressive sum of over $6,000.

Just last month, CAC organized an auction for a holiday package to Victoria Falls, raising $5,300. These auctions have proven to be highly effective in bringing communities together and simplifying the fundraising process.

■ The auction commenced at 10 p.m. on June 11, 2023, and will continue until 10 p.m. on July 22, 2023.

■ On the final day of the auction, July 22, a series of activities will take place to determine the winner.

The proceedings of the final day are as follows:

■ Participate On Twitter Space event to be held on July 22, 2023. The event will run the whole day and serve as a platform for participants to follow the proceedings.

■ At 10 p.m., a 15-minute deposit window will open, during which the auction judges will conclude the bidding process.

■ Once the deposit window closes at 11:15 p.m., the auction judges will tally their figures and cross-verify them with the bidders.

■ Finally, at 11:30 p.m., the auction judges will announce the winner of this remarkable fundraising initiative.

To actively participate and stay updated with the auction progress, it is essential for participants to be present at the designated Twitter Space event on July 22, 2023.

The event will provide an opportunity to engage with other participants and witness the thrilling culmination of the auction.

The commitment and dedication of Citizens Action for Change, coupled with the generosity of donors like Mr. Mushayabasa, highlight the collective effort to support Advocate Nelson Chamisa's candidature and uphold democratic principles.

These initiatives play a crucial role in ensuring voter participation and safeguarding the integrity of the electoral process.

To stay updated on CAC's activities and contribute to their noble cause, follow their Twitter handle, @citizensactionz, and participate in their Twitter Spaces held daily.

Together, Zimbabweans can make a significant impact and pave the way for a future that champions transparency, accountability, and democratic ideals.
