There Are No Losers In The CCC, Says President Chamisa

By Citizens' Daily Bulletin
Correspondent

Leader of the Citizens Coalition for Change, Advocate Nelson Chamisa, recently assured members that there were no "losers" in the party's just-concluded candidate selection process.

The party introduced a novel candidate selection process that allowed citizens to participate in the selection of candidates considered worthy of representing their interests.

The extensive process, which lasted over two months, helped to identify the best candidates, as evidenced by the caliber of candidates revealed by the Citizens' Independent Selection Panel at a press conference in Harare on Sunday.

Responding to journalists' queries about named candidates who would not make the final list, President Chamisa stated that the candidates who did not make the final list were still important to the party's mission.

Candidates who failed to make it onto the final list for the 2023 parliamentary and local government roles would be redeployed within the government for other tasks.

"The Citizens' Movement is a large movement, and roles and tasks are assigned by the citizens. Both the nominated candidate and the one not nominated will be redeployed with other responsibilities," Chamisa stated.

He added that the losing candidates would serve Zimbabwe's people within the new government.

Zimbabwe is heading towards a watershed election on August 23, 2023, with stakes higher than ever for Chamisa's party.

The citizens of Zimbabwe are looking to him and his team to save the country from further economic collapse that could jeopardize Zimbabwe's future.

We Are Missionaries Of This Revolution: Ostallos Siziba

By Citizens' Daily Bulletin
Correspondent

During his speech for the International Day of the African Child, Gift Ostallos Siziba, the deputy spokesperson of the Citizens Coalition for Change (CCC), highlighted the important roles of visionaries and missionaries in any revolution.

Siziba explained that the transformative CCC leader, Advocate Nelson Chamisa, is the visionary of the current struggle for change in Zimbabwe.

He said that supporters of Chamisa, such as himself and other change champions, are the missionaries that work to support and implement the visionary's ideas.

Siziba stressed that any significant event, such as a revolution, needs a leader with a clear vision and goals for the supporters to follow and execute.

A visionary has original ideas about the future, while a missionary is a person who promotes that idea in a local or foreign area.

"Who are we? We are missionaries. Do we own the vision? No, we don't own the vision but we implement the vision. What's the method of the revolution or struggle? It is the power of the ballot," he said.

He emphasized that the current struggle could only be won through the power of the ballot, a peaceful method that stands in contrast to previous revolutions fought through the bullet.

"The method of the struggle is the ballot, the yesteryear revolution led by Joshua Nkomo, Dumiso Dabengwa, Josiah Mangama Tongogara and Nikita Mangena among other heroes was through the bullet," he emphasized.

It is essential for the change champions and Zimbabwean citizens to unite and support President Chamisa's vision by voting in large numbers and defending the results to avoid economic collapse that could jeopardize the country's future.

Siziba believes that it is vital to have one visionary and a team of many missionaries because having multiple visionaries could result in a lack of focus and failure to achieve the set objectives.

As the country prepares for the upcoming elections, the stakes are higher than ever, and the country's future is on the line.

The support of the Zimbabwean people is necessary to ensure that CCC's visionary achieves his goals and establishes a more prosperous and stable future for the country through peaceful and democratic means.

We Are Leading The Revolution Here In Zimbabwe, Not Outside: Siziba

By Citizens' Daily
Bulletin Correspondent

Gift Ostallos Siziba, the deputy spokesperson of the Citizens Coalition for Change, recently issued a strong response to recent comments made by political opponents who have branded his party weak.

In a speech during the International Day of the African Child commemoration in Bulawayo over the weekend, Siziba lashed out at those who have questioned the strength of the CCC, and highlighted the party's ongoing efforts to challenge the government in Harare.

According to Siziba, the political opponents who have criticized the CCC are the same individuals who are in hiding, too afraid to face the regime on the ground.

He argued that while his party faces incredible challenges operating in a dictatorship, they have continued to fight against the regime locally, rather than relying on social media or other ineffective methods.

"We are leading the revolution here in Zimbabwe, not outside the country like some others who claim to be fighting for change," asserted Siziba.

"Despite the challenges we face, our party is fighting tirelessly for the betterment of our country and its people," he added.

"We know the enemy we are dealing with. On several occasions they wanted us to be on the streets, demonstrating against the regime's rogue behavior against our members so that they arrest the leader of the revolution but we said we will not follow that route." "We will not be deterred by critics who are too scared to face the regime head on," Siziba emphasized his point.

"The CCC and its members have shown time and time again that we are willing to stand up for the people of Zimbabwe, often at great personal risk.

"We have shown time and time again that we are a force to be reckoned with, and we will continue to fight for a better future for Zimbabwe and its people."

Despite facing significant challenges, including harassment and persecution from the regime, Siziba made it clear that the CCC remains committed to its cause, and called on all Zimbabweans to unite against the dictatorship, poverty, corruption, economic hardship and a decay health system among others in the upcoming elections.

"We will not stop until we have achieved true democracy and freedom for our country," he said.

"And we call on all those who believe in this cause to join us on August 23rd in the fight for a better future through the ballot."

CCC Candidates Heed Presidents' Call: Renounce MDC Ties For 2023 Elections

By Citizens' Daily Bulletin Correspondent

In a positive development, the candidates chosen by the Citizens Coalition for Change (CCC) for the 2023 Zimbabwe elections have responded to President Chamisa's recent call and publicly disassociated themselves from the MDC Alliance.

After careful consideration of the directive, the candidates with MDC Alliance ties have taken the necessary steps to renounce their previous affiliations to avoid any confusion or association that could compromise the CCC's chances of success in the upcoming elections.

In an interview with one of the candidates, he confirmed having submitted a letter to the MDC offices stating that he is no longer a member of their organization.

"Yes I have submitted my letter to the MDC offices notifying them that I'm no longer part of their organization," the candidate told The Citizens' Daily Bulletin.

This decision is considered critical in preserving the CCC's prospects and ensuring that the party can contest the election without any impediments.

"We are glad that our candidates have heeded the call and publicly denounced their previous affiliations with the MDC Alliance."

As the CCC gears up for the upcoming elections, confident that its message of change and reform will resonate with Zimbabweans, the nomination court is scheduled to convene on Wednesday for the submission of candidates who will participate in the August 23rd elections.
