President Chamisa Salutes SA Government For Supporting Zimbos In SA

By Citizens Daily Bulletin
Correspondent

Citizens Coalition for Change leader Nelson Chamisa on Saturday expressed his gratitude to the South African government and its people for their support of Zimbabweans during difficult times.

President Chamisa, who had visited his supporters in South Africa, acknowledged the nation's hospitality and assistance towards the more than 1 million Zimbabwean emigrants who fled the economic, social, and political hardships in their country beginning in 2000.

Zimbabwe is currently experiencing hyperinflation, corruption, and poor living conditions, causing a migration crisis that is affecting neighboring countries such as South Africa.

Thousands of Zimbabweans continue to cross the border to escape these issues, placing a significant burden on the resources of South Africa. Despite this, President Chamisa's message highlighted the compassion and help that Zimbabweans received during their time of need.

"We also thank the South African government and citizens of South Africa for their support and hospitality to Zimbabweans during our challenging times!" President Chamisa, however, called upon the region and the continent to support his plea for change and collectively prevent Zimbabwe from being a burden through a disputed election on August 23.

In a message addressed to Zimbabweans in South Africa, he urged them to vote on August 23rd, encourage at least five of their relatives to vote for change, or support and adopt a polling station in their home area.

"We salute Zimbabweans in SA and the Diaspora for the great support to families and communities back home. I left them 3 asks and tasks; 1.Come home and vote twenty free August.

2.Encourage your 5 relatives to vote for change under the 1+5 strategy.

3.Adopt and support a polling station in your home area. More importantly, pray for peace and change in Zimbabwe!"

We Will Win Against All Odds: President Chamisa

By Citizens' Daily Bulletin Correspondent

Advocate Nelson Chamisa, Zimbabwe's leading opposition leader, has pledged that his Citizens Coalition for Change party will win against all odds, in the upcoming August 23rd elections.

Speaking to his supporters in South Africa on Saturday, President Chamisa assured them and the international community that despite the challenges of intimidation, violence, and vote-rigging attempts by the regime in Harare, his party would succeed on the support they command within the country.

He argued that his party would emerge victorious, despite the harsh environment, and the elections being unfair.

He cited 2018's win as a classic example of determination and hard work.

He said although Mr Mnangagwa subverted the will of the people in the previous election, this time he won't succeed. President Chamisa called on his supporters to come out in big numbers and cast their ballots.

"We win not because the environment is conducive. We win not because the elections are free and fair.

"We win against all odds and we win because we are supported by the people of Zimbabwe.

"We won in 2018. Mr Mnangagwa did what he did to try and subvert the will of the people. This time we are not going to allow what they did in 2018 in 2023. We are going to win again but we have to win in big margin."

He disputed Zimbabwe's ex-Information Minister, Jonathan Moyo's notion that the opposition in Zimbabwe was weak - stating that the facts on the ground suggest that the opposition is the next government in Zimbabwe.

President Chamisa cited previous by-election results where they had won 19 out of 20 Members of Parliament and 89 out of 149 councillors.

"Facts are on the ground that the opposition is the next government in Zimbabwe. Facts are on the ground that all by-elections we won 19 out of 20.

The council elections we had out of 149 we won 89. I think he is mistaking Zanu-PF for the alternative. Zanu-PF is the opposition because indeed come the 23 of August it is the opposition."

In the face of adversity, President Chamisa expressed high spirits and voiced confidence in winning the elections.

Zimbabwe Shouldn't Be A Headache For The Region Or The Continent: President

By Citizens' Daily Bulletin
Correspondent

Citizens Coalition for Change President, Advocate Nelson Chamisa, has made an appeal to international, continental and regional bodies, including the UN, AU, and SADC, to support Zimbabweans in freely and democratically choosing their leaders in the upcoming August 23rd general elections.

Addressing his supporters in South Africa, he implored the international community to ensure the polls were free and fair.

Zimbabwe's August 23rd general election is critical, and the citizens must choose their preferred representatives in council, parliament, senate and presidency.

President Chamisa called upon the region and continent to support his plea for change, and collectively avoid Zimbabwe from continuing to be a burden.

"Fellow Africans support our initiatives. Support our peace effort. Support our call for change and our cause for change. We don't want Zimbabwe to continue to be a headache for the region and the continent. We want Zimbabwe to be a refuge and a safe place for Africa to also come."

President Chamisa's appeal follows reports of Zanu PF attempting to rig the elections through their rogue group, Forever Associates of Zimbabwe (FAZ). FAZ has been accused of fraudulent misconduct, illegally signing for CCC members who had lost in council and parliamentary candidate selection procedures, causing confusion among CCC voters.

There have been multiple allegations of violence and intimidation against CCC members in rural areas, resulting in the withdrawal of a CCC Gutu council candidate, after being threatened with death by Zanu PF henchmen.

Moreover, the voters' roll which is significant in the electoral process has not yet been released by the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission (ZEC).

Given these disturbing allegations, President Chamisa calls for a global advocacy to ensure that the harmonized elections in Zimbabwe are transparent, and the will of the people is respected.

By doing so, Zimbabwe can become a safe refuge for Africa to enjoy and celebrate democracy.

Zimbabweans are peace-loving people who need the support of the entire world, as well as the support of their regional and continental neighbours.

Dr Eddie Mahembe To Write A Regular Column On The Citizens' Daily Bulletin

By Citizens' Daily Bulletin
Correspondent

Prominent Economist Dr Eddir Mahembe was publicly thanked by President Nelson Chamisa at the Observatory Golf Club On Sunday as the Citizens' Coalition For Change intensified the party's diaspora policy engagement programme this week.

President Chamisa was in South Africa this weekend and took the time between the Germison South rally, meetings with business people and investors, meetings with political leaders in South Africa - and a fund raising event in Observatory.

President Chamisa emphasised that many people are always advocating for Africa to join into partnerships with world super powers - but in fact Africa is a super power by itself.

President Chamisa said that the CCC is ready to take over the reigns of power in Zimbabwe come August 23 - and this was the time for Zimbabwe's diaspora to come together and push through with the effort to rebuild Zimbabwe.

President Chamisa said that there is hope in Zimbabwe and that hope was being driven by ordinary citizens who are yearning for a better future and a more organised approach to politics.

President Chamisa invoked the spirit of Martin Luther King - the American Baptist minister and activist who was one of the most prominent leaders in the civil rights movement from 1955 until his assassination on April 4, 1968.

"All that Luther King had - was a dream. He dreamt that his four little children would one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the colour of their skin but by their character. It is a dream that we all share and it is a dream that Zimbabweans are having about their country," said President Chamisa.

The President thanked Dr Mahembe and others in the diaspora for having come up with a workable CCC diaspora policy document - which the party had prepared for launch this week. The CCC is due to publicly announce its party manifesto in the coming few days.

Dr Eddie Mahembe is a Development Economist and is currently a Council Member of the Zimbabwe Economics Society (ZES) and Editor of the Zimbabwe Journal of Economics (ZJE).

He holds a PhD in (Development) Economics, MCom in Economics, BCom Honours in Econometrics and BSc. Honours in Economics.

He can be reached on email (eddiemahembe@outlook.com) or Twitter (@eddiemahembe).

Dr Mahembe is also a columnist on the Zim Digital Sunday Express where he regularly writes insights on economics, diaspora perspectives, local and international developments and news affects ordinary people.

Citizens' Action For Change Mobilises $326 000 To Support President Chamisa's Candidacy

By Citizens Daily Bulletin
Correspondent

Citizens Action for Change (CAC) has made significant strides in their efforts to support the candidature of Advocate Nelson Chamisa, reaching a remarkable milestone of $326,000 towards voter mobilization and polling agents' fees.

The citizen-led campaign, which has been ongoing for a year, is set to intensify this week as the election count-down continues.

To foster engagement and raise funds, CAC organizes daily Twitter Spaces, inviting citizens to participate. The Twitter Spaces can be accessed through their official handle, @citizenactionz.

As the campaign gains momentum, prominent figures within the party are scheduled to attend these citizen spaces to rally and mobilize the electorate.

On Friday, June 30, 2023, CAC will host Hon Hwende, the newly nominated MP candidate for Kuwadzana East Constituency, at 7 pm Zim time.

Other influential party members are also lined up to address these spaces in the upcoming weeks. Dr Henry Jaji, one of the organizers of CAC, expressed gratitude towards all citizens who have participated in the campaign thus far. He encouraged everyone to redouble their efforts as they intensify their activities.

Dr Jaji emphasized their unwavering support for Advocate Nelson Chamisa, noting his determination in deploying candidates across the country despite facing numerous challenges.

The Citizens Action for Change firmly believes that Chamisa remains the people's hope in the upcoming election, motivating their decision to contribute to his cause.

"In the next 60 days, we will continue testifying our fund-raising campaign and rallying behind everyone to join in," stated Dr. Jaji.

"We have already raised over $326,000, but our journey is not yet complete. The next 60 days are critical, and we call on citizens to keep pushing forward!"

To contribute to the fund-raising campaign, citizens can send their donations using the secure link provided: <https://citizensactionforchange.org/fund/chamisa-defend-the-vote-fund>.

It is important to note that CAC only accepts donations from Zimbabwean residents.

As the election draws closer, Citizens Action for Change is determined to make a substantial impact through their unwavering support for Advocate Nelson Chamisa.

Their collective efforts, both in raising funds and mobilizing citizens, signify the resilience and determination of the Zimbabwean people to participate actively in the democratic process.

Dynamic Young Leader Sibanda Takes On Finance Minister In Cowdray Park

By Citizens' Daily
Bulletin Correspondent

In what is set to be a fiercely contested battle for the Cowdray Park Constituency in Bulawayo, young and passionately driven candidate Pashor Raphael Sibanda has emerged as the Citizens Coalition for Change (CCC) party's pick to take on a Zanu PF rival in the sitting Finance Minister, Professor Mthuli Ncube.

Sibanda's potential as a community leader is evident in his personal background.

Born and raised in Cowdray Park, he is deeply invested in the local community and understands the issues affecting residents first-hand.

Sibanda attended schools in Cowdray Park before pursuing his higher education in marketing at National University of Science and Technology (NUST) in Bulawayo.

Sibanda is impressive not only for his academic achievements but also for his leadership skills.

He served as the regional leader for the Zimbabwe National Students Union in Matebeleland during his time at NUST, advocating for the rights of students and contributing to a brighter future for the youth.

He received a Master's degree in International Business from the University of Agder in Norway, allowing him to bring invaluable knowledge and worldly perspectives to the campaign trail.

Furthermore, Sibanda's role as Secretary General for the CCC Youth Taskforce shows his capabilities as a national leader.

Now is the perfect time to give young, dynamic leaders like Pashor Raphael Sibanda a chance to serve and amplify the voices of ordinary citizens in his constituency.

The party has entrusted this ambitious young leader to mobilize and empower young people in their push for social change.

Additionally, Sibanda led the UN program, AYVD in Zimbabwe, the initiative aimed at reinforcing young voices and advocating for their meaningful participation in democratic processes.

Sibanda's selection has garnered massive support from Cowdray Park residents, who view him as one of their own, given his deep familiarity with local issues and his first-hand experience as a resident in the constituency.

His candidacy has rallied a sense of unity among the community with the belief that he can push for sustainable development and uplift the living standards in the constituency.

Despite his relative youth, Sibanda's track record and involvement in youth and community development initiatives indicate that he is more than capable of delivering on his commitments.

Fraudstar Who Forged CCC Officials' Signatures In Kariba Double Candidature Faces Arrest

TROUBLE awaits a Kariba man, who allegedly forged signatures of two Citizens' Coalition for Change (CCC) top officials on his nomination papers as a parliamentary candidate at Chinhoyi Magistrates Court Wednesday.

Police are now keen to question the culprit, Andrew Mutsau, who is unknown within the rank and file of the main opposition movement and wants to spoil it for CCC's candidate Shine Gwangwaba.

He allegedly forged signatures of CCC officials, Mutsa Murombedzi and MP Concilia Chinhanzvavana, who were designated signatories for councillors across Mashonal-and West.

CCC insiders say it remains a mystery how the fraudster got access to the pair's signatures which he unfortunately attached wrongly on his House of Assembly nomination forms, which were signed for by a different pair of signatories.

Parliamentary nominees had their candidatures authenticated by lawyers, Innocent Chagonda and Stabile Mlilo.

CCC interim provincial chairman and aspiring Senator, Ralph Magunje confirmed his party was seized with bringing Mutsau to book for fraud.

"We have been to ZEC (Zimbabwe Electoral Commission) where we lodged a complaint and police where one of the signatories, madam Murombedzi has made representations that will help in bringing culprit to book.

"As CCC we are determined to fix the mess of double candidature caused by this fraudster," said Magunje.

Last Friday, Murombedzi spent over three hours at Chinhoyi Criminal Investigations Department (CID) Law and Order, where she endured interrogation by detectives. CCC has identified at least 20 cases of fraudulent registration of candidates under its banner with some on ZEC's list professing ignorance of how their names got there.

CCC has since approached ZEC over the matter with the hope the names are struck off the final list expected on June 30.

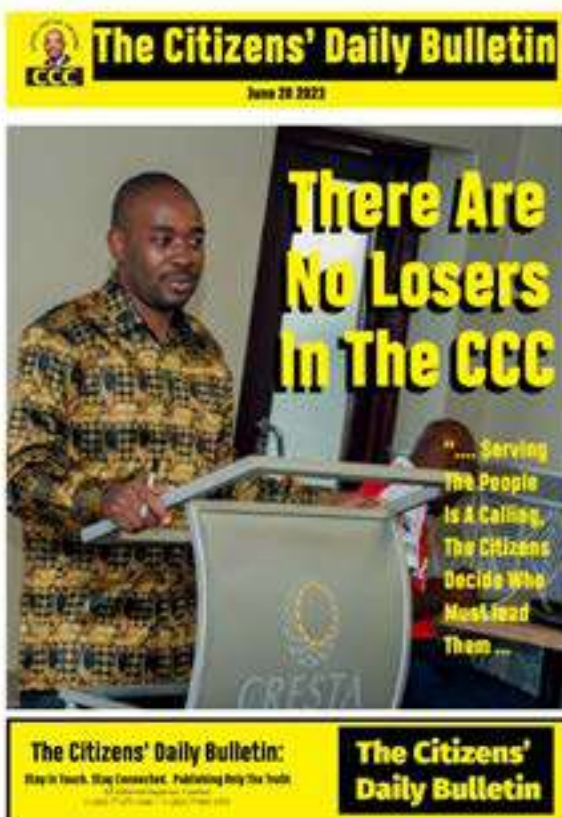

Double candidates under CCC cropped up after nomination day across the country.

CCC spokesperson, Fadzayi Mahere said 'extra' candidates in Mt Pleasant where she will be running, Harare East, Harare Central, Harare South, Harare North, Hatcliffe, Hatfield, Epworth South, Chitungwiza North, Chitung-wiza South, St. Mary's Churu and Warren Park should be struck off the final ballot paper by ZEC.

Similar issues were raised for Sunningdale, Entumbane in Bulawayo, Kariba, Masvingo and Marondera. "The signatures that appear on those forms are forged, the logo that appears on their forms that is being used is a complete forgery.

"The bottom line is that their candidate submission is a complete forgery, a complete invalidity, a nullity and it is going to be dealt with intensively," Mahere was quoted saying. - Source: NewZimbabwe
