Stop Press: Change Radio Set To Release Nyatsime Documentary

By Citizens Daily Bulletin Correspondent

So its finally here. A year and more has gone by since the abduction and murder of Citizens Coalition for Change (CCC) activist, Moreblessing Ali by suspected Zanu PF supporters and her remains are still to be buried. Ali's remains were found in a shallow well 18 days after her kidnapping.

Her family has declared they will not bury her remains before the release of their lawyer, Job Sikhala who was arrested for inciting public violence.

Sikhala according to the state, recorded and published a video demanding justice for the slain activist.

He was arrested three days after Ali's body was found and has clocked over a year in pretrial detention at Chikurubi Maximum prison. Many questions remain among the ordinary citizens of Zimbabwe about who exactly was Moreblessing Ali and why she had to die the way that she did. Who were the Nyatsime 17 and why are there so many legal questions about them in Zimbabwe's political landscape. What about Ali's family and how were they affected by her death? Infact who killed Moreblessing and has the matter been given enough local, national and international coverage? So then - with so many questions and so many mysteries - Change Radio will this Sunday Premier the Nyatsime Documentary. Stay connected to Change Radio as it reveals the real story of Moreblessing Ali as the film will premier in North America and online on Sunday July 2 at 1pm Zimbabwean time.

Zim's Economic Troubles Escalate As Third Cycle Of Hyperinflation Sets In

In response to the Reserve Bank of Zimbabwe's announcement of disappointing wholesale foreign exchange auction results, the Citizens Coalition for Change (CCC) Member of Parliament for Harare East, Hon Tendai Biti, took to Twitter to express concern and shed light on the deeper issues impacting the country's economy.

By Tongai Mwenje

Hon Biti began by criticizing the government's reliance on command economics, emphasizing that such attempts to control money supply were shortsighted and only offered temporary relief.

He argued that the permanent solution to Zimbabwe's economic woes lies in tackling corruption and implementing fiscal consolidation. In short, he stressed the need to "eat what you kill," focusing on sustainable economic practices.

"Command economics doesn't work & will not work. The attempt to control money supply by draining RTGS$ in circulation is a myopic measure that can only bring temporary relief. Permanent solution lies in stopping corruption & fiscal consolidation

. In short "eat what you kill", he tweeted.

However, Hon Biti warned that the real danger Zimbabwe faces is the entry into a third cycle of hyperinflation.

Alarming figures revealed a 75% month-on-month inflation rate in May.

Hon Biti pointed out that this figure, though high, is actually a blended rate manipulated to deceive the international community, particularly regarding debt relief efforts.

"Real danger is that economy has entered a third cycle of hyperinflation. That month on month inflation for May was 75% is frightening. This after all is a blended inflation created to hood wink a naive International Community desperate to support a Debt Relief Effort at odds...", he added.

Hon Biti further exposed the discrepancies in official and blended inflation rates.

While the official inflation rate was declared at 230% in January 2023, the blended inflation rate devalued it to 92% in February 2023.

The implication is that, if not for these manipulations, Zimbabwe's annualized inflation would exceed a thousand percent. As an example, Hon Biti highlighted the skyrocketing bread prices, which increased from ZWL$4000 to ZWL$12000 within a month, a 200% rise.

"... with hard reality & common sense. Official inflation was 230% in January 2023 but blended inflation devalued same to 92% in February 2023. It follows that bar the fraud & mascara of a blended rate Zim annualized inflation is above a thousand per cent. In May alone bread prices increased from ZWL$4000 to ZWL$12000, a monthly increase of 200%."

Hyperinflation, Hon Biti argued, creates a self-sustaining cycle of economic activity detached from the reality of the situation. The crises brought on by such practices leads to a rapid depreciation of the exchange rate. This reality is reflected in the continuous free fall of the Zimbabwean dollar, which has experienced an average daily decline of -1.83% in 2023, reaching its lowest point of -24.6% on June 7th.

Hon Biti warned that the upcoming election season would intensify the economic free fall, exacerbating the already dire situation. The impact of this crisis is felt hardest by ordinary citizens whose disposable incomes are rapidly eroding.

"The crises is hitting hard wananchi whose disposable incomes have been severely eroded."

As Zimbabwe grapples with mounting economic challenges and the looming threat of third circle of hyperinflation,

Hon Biti's comments serve as a stark reminder of the urgent need for a comprehensive and sustainable approach to address the root causes of the economic turmoil.

Ultimately, the fate of the nation's economy rests in the hands of policymakers, who must heed the call for transparency, accountability, and effective solutions to alleviate the suffering of Zimbabweans and restore stability.

As the 23rd August elections draw nearer, the citizens have a crucial opportunity to select leaders who are genuinely driven by serving the interests of the people and not their own self-centered agendas. These leaders should prioritize the betterment of the lives of the general populace and the creation of an inclusive economy that benefits all.

"Aggregate demand has significantly diminished throughout the entire economy, and all growth projections have been downscaled. Consequently, Zimbabwe finds itself in yet another recession. It is with a heavy heart that I share this news, but it is important for the citizens to brace themselves for a long, challenging period of despondency and hardship," concluded Hon Biti.

Citizens Movement Unstoppable: When Its Time For Change, No One Will Stop It

By Citizens' Daily Bulletin Correspondent

This week innovative messaging in the Citizens Coalition For Change is running in the Ngadziore communities - and it is a marvel to watch.

Fresh from launching the high profile Harare City Council SMEs Policy this week - in which the CCC-led metropolitan city has pledged 150 000 trading stalls - CCC's Denford Ngadziore was trending throughout the day in the Citizens Daily Bulletin - with a telling time-zoning message - in which he emphasised that the time for Harare to promote the city's economy is upon us.

At the launch this week Ngadziore cut the figure in public of a man and a party that is conscious of the time for change that is coming on August 23 collectively to us as Citizens - and announced the timely interventions that will bring investment into Harare.

Councilor Ngadziore said that the policy is aimed at bringing order and sanity to the SMEs sector by formalising SMEs business operations and providing policy directives that regulate the sector to foster economic participation.

Ngadziore further stated that the City of Harare is targeting providing stalls and markets to over 150 000 people in Harare by 2024, adding that all those operating illegally will be regularized with trading spaces provided for them.

"We are targeting to provide stalls and markets to over 150000 people in Harare by the end of 2024. "All those operating illegally will be regularized and trading spaces provided for them."

Only a day after - the messaging took an interesting time-telling moment when our Harare Youth Quota (Member of Parliament) representative - Takudzwa Ngadziore tweeted President Chamisa branded watches - in which he castigated those who are against Change - and said that some were going out of their way to spread disinformation about the people.

"They're trying by all means to stop the wave but it's unstoppable. In other places it's vote-buying, in some it's fear, double candidates etc.

However, it's time for yellow to takeover," Ngadziore said in the tweet, which ended saying: "Lead us President @nelsonchamisa".

The essence of the younger Ngadziore's messaging elicited many responses among the Citizens to ask kuti where can they buy the watches and for how much.

True to fact - time waits for no one, and in this case - the social media is showing that time for change will come - whether by chronometer - or by elections victory at the polling stations.

Unravelling The Hypocrisy Of Zimbabwean Politics

By David Laque

Zimbabwean politics has always been a realm of hypocrisy and hidden agendas, leaving citizens perplexed, dissatisfied, and disillusioned.

The individuals who present themselves as champions of the people often lack the consistency necessary to earn our trust. In the current political landscape, this duplicity is exemplified by the accusations and counter-accusations surrounding candidate selection within the Chamisa-led Coalition for Change (CCC).

Initially, some voices demanded that Chamisa impose individuals based on their perceived loyalty, performance, and the preservation of legacies.

This imposition would be either through bypassing constituency candidate selection processes or granting these individuals proportional representation (PR) seats as a symbolic gesture.

However, when the CCC candidate selection processes concluded, these same characters suddenly began accusing Chamisa of "candidate imposition" and surrounding himself with cronies.

The selective anger displayed by these individuals reveals their true motives, which have little to do with the internal processes of the CCC. It calls into question their integrity and further highlights the hypocrisy prevalent within Zimbabwean politics.

Nevertheless, it is important to note that this mentality of disregarding internal processes for personal gains is not unique to the CCC.

In the past, we have witnessed similar instances of legacy preservation that contributed to the rise of Vincent Tsvangirai's political capital.

However, when Tsvangirai went rogue, no one was willing to be held accountable for his questionable ascent to parliament.

Likewise, Job Sikhala Junior is currently being used as a tool by those whispering in his ear, assuring him that he should inherit his father's seat despite his inability to satisfy other internal CCC requirements. The motives behind this manipulation of the young man's situation are far from noble.

Sadly, the abuse suffered by Job Sikhala at the hands of the Harare regime is now being spun to shift blame onto the CCC, perpetuating baseless propaganda that implicates Chamisa in Wiwa's arrest.

It is crucial to recognize that this issue is not rooted in the CCC itself, but rather being manipulated by external forces with their own agendas.

It is time for us to acknowledge that popularity alone should not qualify a candidate during primary elections. The electorate should be put through a rigorous selection process to identify the most suitable representative.

Institutions must perform due diligence, especially when popularity can be fabricated, competence can be feigned, and honesty can be staged. The party and its leadership must be held accountable should their chosen representatives later turn rogue.

The CCC is now slowly being vindicated for its strategic ambiguity and delayed publication of candidates.

Despite some internal challenges, the party took into consideration the mistakes of the past and strived to avoid repeating them. It is now imperative for the focus to shift from internal controversies to discussing the new and brilliant candidates provided by the CCC.

These candidates hold the potential to advance the democratic agenda and shape Zimbabwe's future.

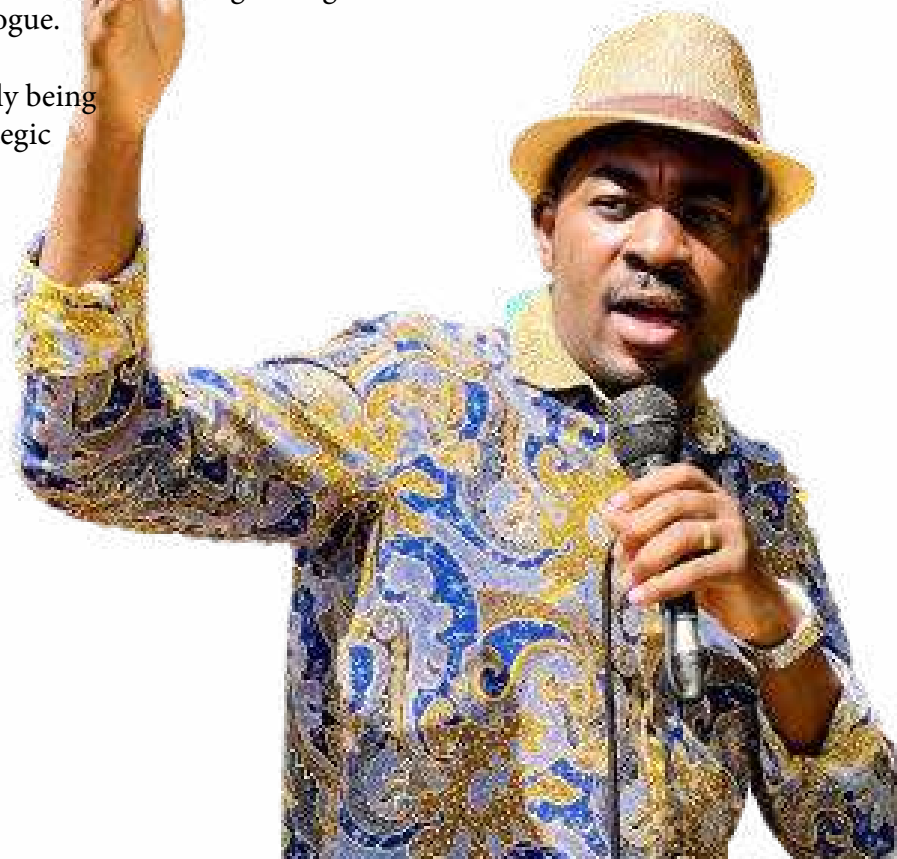

Fortunately, some successful CCC candidates have already begun activating constituency and ward cluster meetings, devising strategies for campaigning and mapping polling stations and agents.

It is crucial that we redirect our attention and support to these issues that matter, shifting our focus away from factional disputes and internal insecurities.

As the 2023 election looms, it is important to view the internal difficulties experienced by the CCC as valuable lessons for the future.

By dedicating our attention to the pressing matters facing the nation and allowing the party to undertake necessary housekeeping, we can lay the groundwork for a stronger, more united opposition.

Aspiring Independent Candidate In Masvingo Withdraws, Throws Support Behind CCC Candidate

By Wezhira Munya

In a move that guarantees unity within the Citizens Coalition for Change (CCC), aspiring councillor Mr. Rocky Kamuzonda has withdrawn his candidature as an independent candidate.

Kamuzonda, who currently holds the position of CCC Masvingo West ward 2 councillor, made the decision official at the ZEC Masvingo Provincial offices after initially filing his papers as an independent candidate.

Kamuzonda, who won the seat in the 2022 by-elections following the recall of the MDC Alliance councillor Vhembo, was not chosen as the preferred CCC candidate for the 2023 harmonized elections.

Instead, Ms Shantel Chiwara will be representing the CCC in the upcoming elections after undergoing the party's candidate selection process.

After engaging in negotiations with the CCC party leadership, Kamuzonda chose to withdraw his candidature and align himself with the party's advice. He expressed his full support for President Nelson Chamisa and all the party's deployees in the forthcoming elections.

Kamuzonda stated, "I have officially withdrawn my candidature at the ZEC offices.

I have heeded the advice of the party and wholeheartedly support President Nelson Chamisa and all party deployees in the upcoming harmonized elections."

In addition to Kamuzonda, the issue of double candidates in CCC Masvingo West ward 2 was resolved when advocate Frank Chirairo also withdrew his candidature. This withdrawal serves to prevent the division of CCC votes, ensuring a more unified front for the party.

The CCC's approach to addressing the issue of double and independent candidates is crucial, as it recalls how the MDC Alliance lost several wards and constituencies in Masvingo province in the 2018 elections due to similar challenges and internal disunity. Furthermore, the ward 2 contest in Masvingo West holds significant importance as it has an urban setting and a voter base of approximately 5,000 constituents.

Historically, this ward has shown strong support for opposition parties.

The outcome of the ward 2 election will also have implications for the Masvingo West constituency, determining whether CCC candidate Mr. Gasva or Zanu PF candidate Mr. Chadzamira will secure the parliamentary seat.

It is worth noting that in the 2018 harmonized elections, President Nelson Chamisa emerged victorious over Zanu PF candidate Emmerson Mnangagwa in Masvingo West ward 2.

With the CCC now ensuring unity and resolving issues regarding candidates, the chances of Zanu PF candidate Mr. Hwata securing a win in this ward appears unlikely, given his track record of repeated losses.

The upcoming harmonized elections will prove crucial for the CCC's aspirations in Masvingo West ward 2, and the party's ability to unite and strategize effectively will play a vital role in its success. -

Zhombe Elder Implores Youth To Fight For A Better Zimbabwe

By Citizens' Daily Bulletin Correspondent

Zhombe Elder Encourages Youth to Fight for a Better Zimbabwe in Upcoming Elections

Mr. Nyathi, an old man from a remote area in Zhombe, Midlands province, set down with us and narrated his journey through the political landscape of Zimbabwe.

He shared how he joined the opposition party led by the late Morgan Tsvangirai since its inception in the early 2000s.

"I joined the MDC party when it was still new in the country, and I have never looked back. I believed that this was the party that would change the lives of many people, not only the few elites," said Mr. Nyathi with conviction.

However, joining the opposition party came with a price. Nyathi had suffered previous time and attacks from Zanu PF, but he continued to hold on to his beliefs.

"I suffered a lot, but I never gave up on the party. I had to endure the persecution, but I have that faith, hope for Zimbabwe," he added.

Today, in his late 70s, Mr. Nyathi still believes that the young people should fight for their future. They should never give up, and they should vote for CCC, and its leader Nelson Chamisa on August 23," he said.

According to Nyathi, the current regime has failed to change the lives of the ordinary people, and that's why we now need a new crop of leadership that can turn around the economy of the country.

"We need a leader who understands the plight of the ordinary people. A leader who can change the economy of this country and create jobs for the people," he emphasized.

Nyathi's story is a testament to the resilience and determination of Zimbabwean people.

Despite the challenges and persecution, he never gave up on his beliefs and continued to fight for a better Zimbabwe.

Masvingo CCC candidates join forces to win Zimbabwe for Change

By Wezhira Munya

In a commendable turn of events, Councillor Rocky Kamuzonda from Masvingo West ward 2 and Councillor Selina Maridza from Masvingo urban ward 1 have set aside their personal ambitions to stand united with their party's endorsed candidates in the upcoming harmonised elections.

While they were not chosen by their party to be its representatives, Kamuzonda and Maridza have embraced the decision to support Shantel Chiwara and Mrs. Chikwangwani as the party's candidates.

Councillor Maridza is taking on the role of campaign manager for Mrs. Chikwangwani in ward 1.

She expressed her enthusiasm for the opportunity, stating: "I am happy to support Mrs. Chikwangwani as our candidate in ward 1. We are working as a cohesive team to secure victory in this ward and contribute to the success of the member of parliament and presidential vote."

Meanwhile, Councillor Kamuzonda took on the position of leading Shantel Chiwara's campaign team in ward 2.

He affirmed his commitment by saying, "I will be at the forefront of Shantel Chiwara's campaign in ward 2 as we strive to secure victory."

The negotiations that brought about this unified force were facilitated by Godfrey Kuraone, a member of the Citizens Coalition for Change (CCC) based in America, along with other CCC members from Masvingo. It is through their efforts that Councillor Kamuzonda and Councillor Maridza have joined forces with the party candidates.

Expressing her gratitude, Shantel Chiwara said, "I am humbled by the overwhelming support from Councillor Rocky Kamuzonda. His endorsement means the world to me."

This spirit of unity extends to all CCC candidates, whether selected or not, who are urged to work together in order to secure victory in their respective wards and constituencies.

Previous elections have seen the MDC under President Tsvangirai lose wards 1, 2, and 6 in Masvingo urban due to internal divisions. As a result, the CCC recognizes the crucial importance of unity and aims to avoid making the same mistakes.

The CCC cannot afford to lose any urban wards in the upcoming elections and is rallying its candidates to work collaboratively for success. - With Change Radio

We Will Win Against All Odds: President Chamisa

By Citizens' Daily Bulletin Correspondent

Advocate Nelson Chamisa, Zimbabwe's leading opposition leader, has pledged that his Citizens Coalition for Change party will win against all odds, in the upcoming August 23rd elections.

Speaking to his supporters in South Africa on Saturday, President Chamisa assured them and the international community that despite the challenges of intimidation, violence, and vote-rigging attempts by the regime in Harare, his party would succeed on the support they command within the country.

He argued that his party would emerge victorious, despite the harsh environment, and the election being unfair.

He cited 2018's win as a classic example of determination and hard work.

He said although Mr. Mugabe's government did what he did to try and subvert the will of the people, this time we are not going to allow what they did succeed. President Chamisa called on his supporters to come out in big numbers and cast their ballots.

"We won in 2018. Mr. Mugabe did what he did to try and subvert the will of the people. This time we are not going to allow what they did in 2018 in 2023. We are going to win again but we have to win in big margins."

He dispensed Zimbabwe's Information Minister, Jonathan Moyo's notion that the opposition in Zimbabwe was weak, stating that the facts on the ground suggest that the opposition is the next government in Zimbabwe.

President Chamisa cited previous by-election results where they had won 19 out of 20 Members of Parliament and 89 out of 149 councillors.

"Facts are on the ground that the opposition is the next government in Zimbabwe. Facts are on the ground that all by-elections we won 19 out of 20.

The council elections we had out of 149 we won 89. I think he is mistaking Zanu PF for the alternative. Zanu PF is the opposition because indeed come the 23 of August it is the opposition."

In the face of adversity, President Chamisa expressed high spirits and voiced confidence in winning the elections.
