President Chamisa Condemns Helicopter Purchase

■ President Chamisa condemns Kazan Ansat helicopters purchase

By Daiy Bulletin Correspondent

Citizens Coalition for Change Leader Advocate Nelson Chamisa has condemned last week's purchase of Kazan Ansat helicopters by the Zanu PF government, citing wrong priorities and answers from the regime in Harare.

The helicopters were bought for $10 million each, a massive spike from the official price of $2.5 million per helicopter and Chamisa criticized such an illegal and corrupt deal.

In a tweet, the CCC President emphasized that bad leaders always made bad interventions with bad intentions.

“Wrong leaders always have wrong priorities and wrong answers. Bad leaders always have bad interventions and bad intentions. When it's rotten at the top everything else stinks and sinks!!” He tweeted.

He underscored the need for a change in leadership, as everything else would continue to stagnate and stink while corruption reigns supreme.

He urged Zimbabweans to register to vote for new leaders who would bring change and happiness to the country. “Choose change. Choose happiness. Choose new leaders!! #RegisterToVoteZW,” he added.

In line with President Chamisa's sentiments, the Citizens Coalition for Change party issued a statement condemning Zanu PF's irrational purchase of the helicopters, highlighting the glaring lack of concern for citizens' welfare and misplaced priorities in a nation with broken public hospitals.

“Zanu PF's grossly irrational purchase of Kazan Ansat helicopters at an inflated price when public hospitals are under-equipped and broken demonstrates the regime's misplaced priorities and lack of true concern for citizens' welfare. Vote CCC.”

With this purchase, Zanu PF leadership has conspicuously demonstrated a lack of genuine efforts towards improving the health sector's critical areas, which have long needed attention.

The party also called on citizens to cast their vote for the CCC as a viable alternative to effect change and transform the country for the better.

In a recent tweet, President Chamisa spoke of his vision for a Zimbabwe that is not only prosperous but united.

“IMAGINE how great and pleasant Zimbabwe would be being number one in many things.. such a good place to live in! What are the conditions for this consequences of abundance? He tweeted.

He emphasized that great nations are always united, working towards a common purpose, and that Zimbabwe must strive towards this level of unity to achieve its full potential.

leadership and unity are the key conditions necessary for creating a nation that is more prosperous and enjoyable to live in.

“LEADERSHIP & UNITY. Great nations are always UNITED in some common purpose. One people One Vision. One Nation. #ChangeIsKenge #Godisinit.”

The challenges facing Zimbabwe are well documented, from economic volatility and political unrest to long-standing issues such as corruption and poor governance.

However, the future can be better, and President Chamisa believes that Zimbabweans must work together to create the country they want to see.

President Chamisa highlighted the importance of good leadership in achieving prosperity and making Zimbabwe a great nation.

The challenges of Zimbabwe will require a concerted effort and commitment from all stakeholders, but the potential for a bright future is there for those who are willing to work towards it.

Mahere Laments Shrinking Democratic Space

■ CCC spokesperson Mahere laments Zim human rights crisis & shrinking democratic space

Citizens Coalition for Change Spokesperson, Advocate Fadzayi Mahere placed the Zimbabwean human rights crisis under international spotlight during her speech at the UN Geneva Summit on Human Rights and Democracy.

She highlighted her own experience in Chikurubi Maximum Prison, where she was held on charges of undermining the authority of the police for tweeting about police brutality.

“Two years ago, I woke up in an overcrowded jail cell in Zimbabwe’s Maximum Security Prison. No water. No toilet. No underwear. No dignity. No rights,” said Advocate Mahere.

“Inmates ate watery porridge with their bare hands because spoons are not allowed.

Despite committing no serious crime, she was placed in the most dangerous category and endured inhumane living conditions.

“Before lights were off, we had to line up in queues for roll call – groups A, B, C and D. D was for Dangerous. Even though the other women there had committed crimes such as murder, armed robbery and infanticide, I alone was put in the dangerous group. I had committed the dangerous crime of tweeting against police brutality,” she added.

Advocate Mahere also spoke about the recent conviction of Transform Zimbabwe President Jacob Ngarivhume and the continued detention of CCC member Job Sikhala, as evidence of the government’s weaponization of the judiciary against political opponents.

“The government’s war against freedom and its weaponisation of the law against myself and other government critics such as Sikhala and Ngarivhume is calculated to send a chilling message to the rest of society – We’re watching you, even on Twitter and this is the punishment you get for participating in opposition politics.”

She called on observers to ensure a free and fair election in Zimbabwe and emphasized the need to remove the dictatorship that is hindering prosperity and freedom in the country.

“I would not risk my life and freedom if I did not sincerely believe that change is possible.

“This August, Zimbabweans go to the ballot box with one simple mission, to win Zimbabwe for change, to install ethical, competent leaders who believe in freedom, dignity and prosperity for everyone.

“The world must insist on the election being free, fair and credible. The will of the people has to prevail. It is difficult but we must emancipate the jewel of Africa from the imprisonment of its current dictatorship,” said Mahere.

CCC MPs Push For Major Electoral Changes Throughout The Night

■ Daily Bulletin
Correspondent

Citizens Coalition for Change (CCC) Members of Parliament found themselves working tirelessly from Thursday afternoon until midnight as they pushed for critical electoral reforms to ensure a free and fair election.

The parliamentary session involved discussions on key issues that would impact the election process, such as the security of the vote, ballot, and results.

CCC MPs took a firm stance on these issues, recognizing the importance of transparency and accountability in the democratic process.

According to CCC MP, Hon Tendai Biti, the caucus had worked tirelessly throughout the night to address issues such as the security of the vote, ballot, and result, which are fundamental to ensuring a fair and free election.

One of the sticking points during the discussions was the demand for the diaspora vote, which Zanu PF Members of Parliament contested.

Notably, this stance did not sit well with CCC MPs, who claimed it went against the principles of the liberation struggle that was centered on enfranchisement for all citizens and their representation in government.

"Section 67 of the Constitution guarantees the right of every Zimbabwean to vote & to freely choose representatives of his or her choice.

Denying the diaspora the right to vote is therefore a negation of its constitutional rights," CCC MP Hon Tendai Biti said.

"Every Zimbabwean Citizen has got a right to vote including those in the diaspora," CCC MP Hon Amos Chibaya added.

Another CCC MP, Hon Charlton Hwende also added his voice on the diaspora vote, "We must understand and appreciate the role of Parliament. We have a constitutional duty to ensure the constitution of Zimbabwe is protected.

The constitution of Zimbabwe is clear on who is entitled to vote, the people who are in the diaspora, as long as they are Zimbabweans they're entitled to vote. For us to sit here in this Parliament at 2220hrs arguing to limit the rights of Zimbabweans is shameful."

Despite facing challenges from some quarters, CCC MPs maintained that they would push forward with the necessary changes.

Their determination stemmed from the deep sense of responsibility they held towards Zimbabweans who have suffered political oppression and economic hardship for decades.

They emphasized the need to push for vital reforms that would instill confidence in the political process for citizens.

Our MPs' efforts are commendable as it demonstrates their commitment, dedication, and hard work towards the cause, and we encourage the broader public to persevere in their pursuit of political change.

In a long Twitter thread before the parliamentary session on the electoral amendment bill, CCC leader Nelson Chamisa urged parliamentarians to advocate unreservedly for the right to vote and diaspora vote and an audit of the voters' roll.

He added that the lawmakers should explore ways to ensure secure voting, timely declaration of results, and curb the practice of traditional leaders compelling people to vote.

President Chamisa also condemned the use of food handouts as bribes in election campaigns. The opposition has long called on the government to implement electoral reforms to guarantee that Zimbabwe holds free, fair, and credible elections.

Zanu-PF Member Urges Citizens To Overcome Fear And Register To Vote

■ Zanu PF member encourages citizens to overcome fear and register to vote*

As the upcoming national elections drew closer in Zimbabwe, the air was filled with anxiety and tension. Many citizens were hesitant to register to vote, fearing the violence, and intimidation that have marred past elections.

However, one Zanu PF member and former MP for Chivi South Constituency, Killer Zivhu, was determined to inspire his fellow citizens to cast aside their fears and exercise their right to vote.

Zivhu knew that the only way to bring about change in the country was to encourage more people to participate in the electoral process.

The vocal Zanu PF member has called on the citizens of Zimbabwe to prioritize their future and to register to vote in large numbers ahead of the upcoming election, irrespective of the challenges they may face.

Zivhu made this statement when the country is heading towards a decisive election, amidst economic downturns, rampant corruption, and human rights violations under the Zanu PF government.

He strongly believes that voting is the only way people can define their future and make a difference in their lives.

Zivhu urged the people of Zimbabwe to carefully consider their choices before casting their votes instead of blindly following political propaganda.

He emphasized the importance of voting for issues that concern the everyday citizen such as job creation, affordable education, better healthcare, and infrastructure development.

"It's risky not to take a risk, go and register to vote, don't just be overzealous to vote, think harder about what you are going to vote for, make history by voting your job, fees, house, future, family, salary, infrastructure, and etc," said Zivhu in a tweet posted on Thursday.

Zivhu's appeal to the Zimbabwean citizens is a reminder of the importance of exercising the right to vote and having a say in their future.

It is everyone's duty to make informed decisions and take an active part in the democratic process by registering to vote and participating in the upcoming elections.
